To Whom It May Concern,

Re: S&J Construction

It is my pleasure to write this letter of recommendation on behalf of S&J Construction.

Our experiences working with S&J Construction have been excellent over the past few years. They are true professionals who have the expertise and experience to design buildings that endure in the harsh climate of the Oregon Coast. Under the leadership of Max Jones, S&J Construction provides outstanding project management skills to their projects.

Our firm has worked with S&J Construction on many residential and commercial projects on the Oregon Coast and every experience has been outstanding. S&J Construction's entire team provides excellent service from the preplanning phase all the way through substantial completion of a project. The construction crew has a wealth of experience and are focused on ensuring projects are built to last. Their ability to provide accurate cost information throughout the phases of the projects allows clients to keep their projects within set budgets.

Anyone would be well served in selecting S&J Construction as a general contractor for his or her upcoming project along the Oregon Coast.

Please feel free to contact me if you require any additional information regarding my experience with S&J Construction.

Sincerely,
