

To Whom It May Concern:

This is a letter of recommendation for Max Jones and S&J Construction of Newport, Oregon. S&J Construction performed the role of general contractor in the building of a custom home for us on the Oregon Coast. Max Jones, the entire S&J staff, and their sub-contractors worked as a cohesive team along with the architect and landscaper to complete the project to our total satisfaction. Max and all the contractors he engaged were professional and skilled in their respective fields. The work was completed with no major problems in a quality manner. In addition, the team willingly incorporated changes as requested by us, during the construction phase. Max, in particular, did an excellent job in coordinating the many activities to keep the project on track. We are very satisfied with the quality of the completed work as well as the team's ethical behavior. Max and his personnel were also recognized for managing the job site in a clean, courteous manner by our neighbors, which was very important to us.

We recommend S&J Construction to others, and would hire them again ourselves if the opportunity were to arise.

Sincerely,

Steve and Brenda Butt
